Dear Howard,

Every once in a while Lil, in impatience, asks when you two are going to come up so she can see you again.

I won't need you to shovel the lane this winter because I'm getting a blade for the garden tractor and it will push the slush for me. So don't wait until then.

There is now added point. Rae has been wanting to file for some foundation support for some time. It took until last week for the University to speak to her. They are sending some things to her. After she gets and read them she'll be in touch with the University again.

Meanwhile there are many questions of which we need guidance.

One in my mind is should I make the application, or should we both?

Little else new.

Let me know when you can. And do it soon because Lil will be going up to visit with my mother for a little while.

Best,
